

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

For producing information carriers the information carriers are transported by at least one transporting device; processing a surface of the information carriers by is processed a processing unit; and the information carriers are treated on the surface so that the surface is well wetted for further printing with ink; and an apparatus for producing the information carriers is provided as well.